

Forum Series 2007

In recent times the banking sector has made a significant investment in the management and measurement of Operational Risk, which has led to its rise in prominence in the financial risk management field.

With Operational Risk accreditation under Basel II expected soon by a number of banks, is the practise reaching its peak or is there a mountainous range of measurement and reporting that lay ahead?

The RMA has put together panels of specialists representing the banking, professional advisory services and the regulatory sectors, who will detail their experience and perspectives on;

- The key focal points, aims & objectives of financial Operational Risk Management
- How Operational Risk is measured
- Weighing up the costs & benefits of Operational Risk
- Where to next for Op Risk

The Q&A session following these presentations will provide members with the opportunity to explore the risk and rise of Operational Risk Management with panellists, and gain insights from senior risk management professionals.

∞ Exclusive and complimentary to RMA members ∞

New members are welcome to join online for $40 (conditions apply) at www.rmaaustralia.org

The Risk Management Association (rma) is the premier Association for Risk Management professionals. Well established in the US, the rma Australia was incorporated in 2004 to represent members at a national level. Institutional members include all major Australian Banks, professional service firms, regulatory bodies and there are currently over 1000 individuals in our membership database.

Objectives

- To provide a forum for members to enhance and share their knowledge of risk management principles and practices.
- To foster continuous professional growth and development of our members.
- To improve and support risk management education and training.
- To keep our members aware of emerging developments in global risk management practices.
- To promote ethical standards and professional conduct in the Australian financial services industry.
